'You are not in control' is the new exhibition curated by Rita Parente and Submit2gravity, within which our cultural perceptions are challenged through multidisciplinary artworks. The organic, aesthetic reference of the 'real' becomes manufactured and transformed by images and digital media. As with all of Submit2gravity's shows, we aim to engage the viewer as a participant where the artist seeks to make some sense of the world in which we exist. Throughout the exhibition the viewer can observe, play and participate becoming directly involved in the exhibition to experience Art in this interactive, multisensory show.

Throughout the exhibition images, installations and illusions that we observe tap into our consciousness of the familiar, culturally perverse pretence of our existence, and seemingly build on our experience through this perception of the real.

Submit2gravity will present 'You are not in control' in the gallery located on the ground floor of Netil House. Traditional art forms will sit alongside modern innovation in an extraordinary exhibition showcasing the talents of emerging and established artists from the UK and overseas. Playful and engaging on so many levels 'You are not in control' encompasses art and innovation integrated under one umbrella. Featuring interactive animation, live audio and visual installation responsive to the environment, to paintings created from soundscapes, drawings, and sculptures.

'You are not in control' is an exhibition that is accessible and is aimed to reach out to a wider community to all people interested in the Visual Arts.
